

Swim the crystal waters of Lake Lucerne and luxuriate at the PALACE LUZERN

One of the joys of swimming is that it can be practised anywhere in the world; amongst the most spectacular scenery. As the UK is confined to indoor pools for much of the year, this summer break out and try the crystal clear waters of Lake Lucerne in Switzerland.

The PALACE LUZERN is situated right on the shores of the lake, and just a short walk along the water's edge to the picturesque town of Lucerne; it enjoys views across the lake to the snow covered Alps. The hotel does not have its own swimming pool, in a formal sense; but its guests have complimentary access to the lake's lido.

The changing rooms are on a pontoon, where guests may leave their bathrobes. These have a halcyon days feel to them, with blue and white striped curtains and wooden decking with steps directly into the lake. There are guards situated there too, in case anyone should get into difficulty. Swimmers can choose to swim any aspect of the thirty-eight kilometre lake, but tend to swim close to the shore, where the water has been warmed by the sun and the tree-lined paths and picture postcard buildings provide an ever changing vista.

Undoubtedly the feeling of freedom is one to relish and one that swimmers particularly enjoy. Prices at the PALACE LUZERN from:

CHF 510/£248* per person per night in a Double Room City view or CHF 710/ £345* per person per night in a Deluxe Double Room overlooking the lake including free entrance to the hotel's exclusive Spa and fitness area (£1=2.060 CHF on 28.04.08)
